HEATERS

MASTER KEROSENE/DIESEL FIRED HEATERS

HOW TO FIND THE RIGHT SIZE HEATER FOR YOU WORKSPACE

First, determine the cubic feet of the area you will heat.

Use the formula: Length x Width x Height. For example
 $28' \times 25' \times 10' = 7,000 \text{ cu. ft.}$

Next, decide the typical heat rise you'll require. For example, if the room temperature, unheated, drops to 15 degrees F and you want it heated to 70 degrees F, the heat rise requirement is 70 degrees minus 15 degrees = 55 degrees.

Then use this formula: (sample numbers inserted)
 $7,000 \text{ cu. ft.} \times 0.133 \text{ (constant)} \times 55 \text{ degrees (temperature rise)} = 51,205 \text{ Btu per hour required.}$
